Like many other people, Charles Hiser raked up the leaves on his front lawn in Milledgeville and started them burning. Hiser's five children were playing in the yard and he sat down on a lawn chair to talk with his wife, Bessie.

While they talked, their 4-year-old son, Johnny, found a can of gasoline near the garage. The youngster poured the can over the burning leaves not realizing what he was doing. Suddenly flames leaped up and ignited Johnny's clothing.

Before the Hizers knew what was happening, another of their boys, 9-year-old Curtis, leaped at Johnny and threw him to the ground. The older boy rolled his brother over and over on the grass—and the flames went out.

A quick examination showed that Johnny had not been hurt.

Curtis took it all in stride. "First thing I learned in Cub Scouting," he said.

Other: did not take it as lightly, and Curtis may be in line for an award from Cub Scout Pack 303 in Milledgeville—the group that had showed him how to save his little brother's life.

Eden Rejects United Nations Call for Peace

British Chief Says France Agrees To Stab against Egypt

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden today rejected the United Nations call for an immediate cease-fire in Egypt. Eden said France also would not comply.

Eden rejected the U. N. call in a statement before a divided House of Commons. A crowd of several hundred persons stood outside in Parliament Square, booed the prime minister when he entered the house to make the statement.

There were demands from opponents of Eden's course that he resign. Tonight Eden will defend his course in a nationwide radio and television talk to the British public already widely divided on the Middle East action.

Eden said Britain and France would be "most willing" to stop military actions as soon as three conditions are met. He listed the conditions as:

"First, that both the Egyptian and Israeli governments agree to a U. N. force to keep the peace.

"SECONDLY, that the United Nations decide to constitute and maintain such a force until an Arab-Israeli peace settlement is reached and until satisfactory arrangements have been agreed to the Suez Canal, both agreements to be guaranteed by the United Nations.

"Thirdly, in the meantime until the United Nations force is constituted, both combatants agree to accept forthwith limited detachments of Anglo-French troops to be stationed between the combatants."

Eden said the substance of his statement had been communicated to the governments of Canada and the United States and to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The prime minister said he had good reason to believe that Australia and New Zealand, both members of the British Commonwealth, would welcome his words.

Eden spoke at the first Saturday session of the House of Commons since 1949. The emergency session was called to hear his reply to the U. N. General Assembly cease-fire resolution.

Mounted and foot police patrolled the precincts of parliament. As Eden spoke, the crowd outside grew to some thousands.

Hungary Continues To Plead For UN Aid against Soviet

BUDAPEST (AP)—Embattled Hungary continued to plead for United Nations help today as Soviet armored hordes thrust westward from Budapest in an effort to close off her frontier with Austria.

Premier Imre Nagy sent his second appeal in two days to the U. N. urging action on his request the world body guarantee Hungarian independence.

The Western powers strove to whip into shape a proposal supporting Hungary's demand for withdrawal of Soviet troops for presentation to a Security Council session this afternoon.

Austria border points reported the Hungarian frontier had once more been sealed off. No travelers were allowed to cross from either side. The Russians held dozens of Americans and other foreigners in frontier villages as they tried to return to Vienna from Budapest.

FEARS OF a general Soviet crackdown were reported spreading to Poland and throughout the satellite area. In East Germany, Premier Otto Grotewohl declared Soviet troops do not intend to leave that country. He appealed to the population to remain loyal in the face of mushrooming anti-Russian student agitation.

Nagy has fired off three protests to the Soviet embassy complaining about troops movements in revolt-ravaged Hungary and charging that Russian troops had occupied rail installations and encircled Budapest.

When fresh Soviet forces were reported moving into Hungary three days ago, the Soviet ambassador told Nagy's government the movements were part of a regrouping in Hungary.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that Hungary and Russia agreed on a mixed armistice commission to arrange for troop withdrawals.

Deputy Defense Minister Maj. Gen. Pal Maleter told newsmen negotiations were begun Wednesday with Soviet Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan.

Maleter, one of the heroes of the Hungarian rebellion, said Mikoyan told State Affairs Minister Zoltan Tildy that troops not stationed in Hungary on the basis of the Warsaw military pact would be pulled out.

The Hungarian government announced Thursday it was pulling out of the Soviet-sponsored Warsaw alliance of eastern Europe and placing the country under U. N. protection.

Judge Huston gave the taxpayers (plaintiffs in the action) leave to amend the second cause of action which contends the transfer of the Bloomingburg, Paint and Jefferson school districts to the Miami Trace District was illegal. ## Mid-East Said Approaching Critical Stage

WASHINGTON (AP)—The undeclared war in the Middle East is now entering what U. S. officials consider to be its most crucial stage.

If Britain, France and Israel are to avoid more serious repercussions for themselves, the belief here is they must bring their operation to a successful conclusion in a relatively short time, perhaps a week or 10 days.

A successful conclusion from their point of view presumably means a quick and effective occupation of key points along the Suez Canal, the tipping of fatal weakening of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government in Egypt and the stabilization of the Israeli-Egyptian military situation without major complications from other Arab states.

There is no certainty here—in fact there is very little confidence at this time—that such a conclusion of the British-French-Israeli undertaking can be achieved.

If it is not, some of the worst fears of top U. S. government leaders about disastrous results for the whole undertaking are likely, in their view, to be realized.

Egypt Target Of Invasion By Thousands

Israel Fears Trouble From Arab Neighbors On Her East Border

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fears mounted today that the entire Middle East could become engulfed in war.

Tens of thousands of British and French troops are expected within hours to start an invasion against Egypt. At the same time, Israel, after pushing back some 20,000 Egyptian troops in the Sinai Peninsula, reported it faced a new menace from the east.

Radio Israel said fresh Arab forces, pledged to answer any call from Egypt's President Nasser for aid, were reported moving in Jordan from Iraq and Syria.

The Iraqi government today confirmed that its troops had arrived in Jordan. However, the troop arrival was denied in Amman, Jordan's capital.

A Western diplomat in Jordan said fighting "might break out on the 400-mile Israel-Jordan frontier 'within 48 hours, if not sooner.'"

Israel's eastern border has been quiet in the five days that Israeli troops moved against Egyptian defenders in the Sinai Peninsula's sandy wastes.

JORDAN'S MINISTER of state, Abdullah Rimawi, declared in Amman "there is a 50-50 chance that Israel will launch an attack against Jordan."

The British and French pressed their invasion plans after flatly rejecting a United Nations demand for peace.

A French military spokesman said the allied ground forces would have as their first task the opening of the Suez Canal. He charged the Egyptians sabotaged the waterway by sinking six ships in it. The Egyptians have asserted that French-British air action blocked the canal.

Prime Minister Eden, in rejecting the demand by 64 members of the United Nations for an immediate cease-fire, asserted that "there must be a continuation of the action."

Warplanes of the combined British-French assault force pounded Egyptian military potential in final preparation for the assault by amphibious forces and paratroopers.

The British-French command on Cyprus today reported the first loss of a plane in their air offensive. A communication said one Royal Air Force Venom fighter failed to return from a mission.

The French defense ministry said the British-French air forces have completed softening-up attacks on Egypt and that all was set for the leap.

"A few hours from now British and French troops will be occupying territory in the canal zone," said a junior minister in the British cabinet late Friday.

British-French fleets were reported massed at the northern and southern ends of the Suez.

The purpose of the invasion, the British and French have said, is to protect the canal from the fighting that began Monday night with a two-pronged Israeli drive across the 130-mile-wide Sinai peninsula in the direction of Suez. They said they also sought to halt the fighting and separate the belligerents.

Fighting died down on the peninsula today while Israel kept an eye on Jordan.

An Israeli communique reported the capture of the town of Atur, 155 miles south of Suez on the west coast of the Sinai peninsula.

The Israelis captured the 180-square mile Gaza Strip Friday. They reported the capture of thousands of Egyptian troops and large quantities of arms, vehicles and provisions.

Egypt maintained it was withdrawing from Sinai to mass its forces on the west bank of the Suez Canal in preparation for the impending British-French invasion. But the French communique said pilots who had flown over the area saw Egyptian units moving about in "great confusion" and giving the "impression of a veritable debacle."

British-French headquarters on Cyprus said a'ded air raids had dealt the Egyptian air force "a crippling blow." The raids have been concentrated on Egyptian airfields.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Portsmouth City Council will consider a resolution asking the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to revoke the Portsmouth charter of the struck Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. and appoint another company to provide service in the area.

Mayor J. Harold Frecka announced the special council meeting for Monday after he and other area representatives conferred here Friday with PUCO commissioners. They discussed means of restoring telephone service in Scioto County.

It would not be the first such legislative action against the utility. Cambridge City Council passed a similar resolution some weeks ago. And in Greenfield, the Chamber of Commerce has filed a formal demand of the same nature with PUCO.

The Portsmouth area has been without service since Ohio Consolidated exchanges were closed Oct. 16 after stoning of company installations there.

Frecka, Mayor Vernal Riffe of New Boston, near Portsmouth, Scioto County Common Pleas Judge Vernon Smith and labor representative J. C. Carroll discussed the situation with commissioners. They presented petitions bearing names of 20,600 area residents, asking for another company to replace Ohio Consolidated.

Egypt Target Of Invasion By Thousands

Israel Fears Trouble From Arab Neighbors On Her East Border

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fears mounted today that the entire Middle East could become engulfed in war.

Tens of thousands of British and French troops are expected within hours to start an invasion against Egypt. At the same time, Israel, after pushing back some 20,000 Egyptian troops in the Sinai Peninsula, reported it faced a new menace from the east.

Radio Israel said fresh Arab forces, pledged to answer any call from Egypt's President Nasser for aid, were reported moving in Jordan from Iraq and Syria.

The Iraqi government today confirmed that its troops had arrived in Jordan. However, the troop arrival was denied in Amman, Jordan's capital.

A Western diplomat in Jordan said fighting might break out on the 400-mile Israel-Jordan frontier "within 48 hours, if not sooner."

Israel's eastern border has been quiet in the five days that Israeli troops moved against Egyptian defenders in the Sinai Peninsula's sandy wastes.

JORDAN'S MINISTER of state, Abdullah Rimawi, declared in Amman "there is a 50-50 chance that Israel will launch an attack against Jordan."

The British and French pressed their invasion plans after flatly rejecting a United Nations demand for peace.

A French military spokesman said the allied ground forces would have as their first task the opening of the Suez Canal. He charged the Egyptians sabotaged the waterway by sinking six ships in it. The Egyptians have asserted that French-British air action blocked the canal.

Prime Minister Eden, in rejecting the demand by 64 members of the United Nations for an immediate cease-fire, asserted that "there must be a continuation of the action."

Warplanes of the combined British-French assault force pounded Egyptian military potential in final preparation for the assault by amphibious forces and paratroopers.

The British-French command on Cyprus today reported the first loss of a plane in their offensive. A communiqué said one Royal Air Force Venom fighter failed to return from a mission.

The French defense ministry said the British-French air forces have completed softening-up attacks on Egypt and that all was set for the leap.

"A few hours from now British and French troops will be occupying territory in the canal zone," said a junior minister in the British cabinet late Friday.

British-French fleets were reported massed at the northern and southern ends of the Suez.

The purpose of the invasion, the British and French have said, is to protect the canal from the fighting that began Monday night with a two-pronged Israeli drive across the 130-mile-wide Sinai peninsula in the direction of Suez. They said they also sought to halt the fighting and separate the belligerents.

Fighting died down on the peninsula today while Israel kept an eye on Jordan.

An Israeli communiqué reported the capture of the town of Atur, 155 miles south of Suez on the west coast of the Sinai peninsula. The Israelis captured the 180-square mile Gaza Strip Friday. They reported the capture of thousands of Egyptian troops and large quantities of arms, vehicles and provisions.

Egypt maintained it was withdrawing from Sinai to mass its forces on the west bank of the Suez Canal in preparation for the impending British-French invasion. But the French communiqué said pilots who had flown over the area saw Egyptian units moving about in "great confusion" and giving the "impression of a veritable debacle."

British-French headquarters on Cyprus said all air raids had ceased the Egyptian air force "a crippling blow." The raids have been concentrated on Egyptian airfields.

Bombs knocked out the Cairo radio.

Feed-Production Pattern Changed By Price Props

Livestock Growers Forced To Operate On Higher Costs

CHICAGO — Seasonal patterns of livestock production and feeding are changing as a result of price support programs on grains says National Livestock Producer, National livestock magazine.

Before price supports, hog numbers as well as cattle and lambs fed were governed by the supply of feed grains — and particularly by feeding ratios of converting grain into livestock products. Thus, there was a direct relationship between the supply of feed available and the production of meat.

Recently, this situation has been changing as support programs have created an additional and more profitable outlet for the feed grains other than feeding it to livestock. Selling grain for cash is frequently more profitable and less speculative than attempting to get a higher return through livestock production and feeding.

AS A RESULT of this added and constant competition, cattle, hog and lamb producers have been forced to operate on a higher cost basis.

The most significant factor at this time is the uneven distribution of feed grains and roughage. Under support programs, grain surpluses tend to move into storage while deficit areas are forced to a self-sufficient and high cost basis. Such a situation is doubly effective in reducing the supply of feed available for livestock.

A free play of economic forces affecting grain prices would result in a better supply and demand situation for livestock, higher livestock prices and better distribution between normally surplus and deficit meat-producing areas.

Buckeye Farm Youths To Visit Foreign Lands

COLUMBUS—Eight Ohio youths will visit foreign countries as 1957 International Farm Youth Exchange delegates, Russell W. Smith, assistant state 4-H club leader has announced.

Representing Ohio youth in the 1957 program are: Janet Louise Boggs, Ohio State University senior from Carroll County; Kathryn Louise Mallett, Ohio State University junior from Trumbull County; Alice Melvina Sharples, Ohio State University senior from Coshocton County; William Robert Doster, Ohio State University sophomore in veterinary medicine from Clinton County; John Clarence Hill, biology teacher and track coach from Belmont County; John Keith Romig, Ohio State University sophomore from Wyandot County; Keith Lowell Russell, Ohio State University junior from Delaware County; and William John Twarogowski, Ohio State University senior from Geauga County.

These young people have stated the countries they would prefer to visit, Smith pointed out. In a few weeks they will receive their appointments from the National International Farm Youth Exchange office in Washington, D. C. Appointments are based on preferences stated by the delegates and the quotas established by the countries participating in the program.

Lice Control Important in Cattle Herds

Cattle raisers have been reminded that immediate measures should be started to control lice if the pests are spotted in their herds.

The American Foundation for Animal Health reports that prompt application of control measures at this time of the year should greatly reduce the losses caused by these parasites and will help protect the herd during the winter months.

Lice not only cause damage to the skin and hair coat of cattle, but may also be responsible for serious anemia. The Foundation says that severe infestations may result in death of young animals. Certain blood sucking cattle lice may serve as vectors (transmitters) of several cattle diseases.

All cattle and their quarters should be sprayed with a recommended insecticide, mixed according to directions of the manufacturer. If cold weather makes spraying impossible, dusting with a powdered chemical can be done.

Lice infestations are fairly easy to spot because the affected cattle start rubbing and scratching. However, the Foundation warns that other conditions may cause skin irritation, so a veterinarian's diagnosis should be obtained to determine the exact cause. A veterinarian can also recommend sanitation and control measures which will help head off serious infestations and losses.

Experts Offer Tips on Squash, Pumpkin Storage

You can store squashes and pumpkins successfully if you observe certain precautions, says E. C. Wittmeyer, Ohio State University extension horticulturist. Only the hard-shelled varieties are adapted for long storage, Wittmeyer points out.

Summer Crookneck, Bush Scallop, Cocozelle and similar early varieties with soft skins usually are not stored. Table Queen and Small Sugar can be kept until Christmas if properly handled.

Some squashes and pumpkins can be stored as long as one year, but this is not practical according to Wittmeyer. The quality when cooked will not be as good as in fruit stored for shorter periods of time.

Fruits should be harvested with a short stem attached. Both squashes and pumpkins should be well matured and carefully handled before storing. Cuts and bruises in rind provide entrances for organisms causing decay. These damaged areas often will heal over if proper conditions are present.

Good results have been obtained by curing pumpkins and squashes for 10 days after harvesting at temperatures of 80 - 85 degrees Fahrenheit, with a relative humidity of about 80 per cent. Following this curing period they should be stored in a dry place where the temperature is around 50 degrees, Wittmeyer says. They kept best when not piled on top of each other and when some space is left between them.

Apples should not be stored in the same area as squashes. Sometimes apples will cause the squash skins to turn orange-yellow, Wittmeyer notes.

To remove dents from heavy silo filler pipe, place a scissors-type auto jack into the pipe section and turn the jack handle. The dents are easily pushed out making the pipe almost as good as new.

BIG TURNIPS

Irvin Riley, who lives in eastern Highland County, recently brought me 15 Globe turnips that weighed 67 pounds. They were as smooth as eggs too.

The seed was sowed in a tobacco bed July 25.

"Most people sow turnips too thick," Mr. Riley says. His were broadcast so that he only had a turnip on a square foot. Cyanamide was used to kill the weeds and the tobacco bed was made so the turnips had no weed competition, common in most turnip seedings.

They had an abundance of available plant food material too. Most of us could use much more commercial fertilizer profitably on our garden, truck and field crops than we do; then all farm land needs more manure, for it tends to add organic matter to the soil, to increase its tilth, and to increase the hygroscopic water, the water around the soil particles, which is all the water plants can use.

Congratulations, Mr. Riley. I'd call you a very good truck farmer; you're also the best tobacco raiser I've ever known, and I know a lot

THE HARVEST MOON

Have you noticed how bright and how close the moon seems to be during the beautiful fall weather we have been having? The stars are brilliant, too. As I was taking a late evening walk Friday, under the stars with the moon furnishing so much light that you could almost read by its light, I thought of what someone has well said:—"When you feel like boasting, and you feel that you are doing things, all by yourself, go out and look at the stars." When one does this he realizes how insignificant he is — just a tiny speck in a universe so vast, that he can't even imagine its size and its scope.

You'll find walking under the stars good for you too, and you'll come back rested and refreshed in mind, and body and spirit. You'll come back with a grateful heart too, for an abundant harvest, for we've had one of the best years they raise anything, that we have had for a long time, and if you don't have good crops, and if you are farming in southern Ohio, it's probably because you have not done your very best, nor used all that you know about how to farm.

Yes, the harvest moon is surely pretty this fall and so are the stars. Take time to look at them often and to enjoy them. "This is indeed a beautiful world." And how thankful we should all be for the many great blessings that we have.

TURLEY APPLES

They are the best apple we have ever used for applesauce. They are mellow, very mild acid, and have a delightful aroma, that you will like. The skin is a brilliant red color but the flesh is as white as wool.

I'm certainly going to add this apple to our fruit tree order for spring delivery and I'd suggest you add some of them to your home or commercial orchard. Since they are a very mellow apple when they ripen, they don't stand shipment very well, but they certainly have their place in any home or good commercial orchard.

A CHICKEN KILLING DOG

"A dog that kills chickens doesn't live very long," I said to our little boy, a good many years ago, when his favorite dog brought home some chickens that he probably killed at a neighbor's farm. A few weeks later we had definite proof that he was killing chickens; a habit, like killing sheep, that no dog ever gets over.

Our dog didn't live very long either, but we did save our little boy from a great disappointment for he wasn't expecting his dog to live very long.

CROWS AND BUZZARDS

When I was on a big farm this week showing it to a farm buyer, we saw two crows flying in the early morning light. "The going is hard with a crow," I said to the buyer. "It seems to work very hard at flying; look at that buzzard high over head. It's covering a lot of ground but it's doing it easily. It does very little flapping of its wings but depends on air currents and long glides to take it to its destination."

People are something like crows and buzzards. Some find their work very hard and others do it easily and efficiently, and get much pleasure in doing it. I expect the big difference is in the way they do their work and the way they plan it. The best farmers and homemakers that I know plan their work for the day, and some homemakers write it out and "check off" the jobs as they complete them.

We did this on our farm and Dad never seemed to be out of jobs, especially on rainy days. He must have had a pretty hard job;

Two Ohio Home Agents Win Honors at Chicago

COLUMBUS — Two Ohio extension home economics agents were selected for distinguished service recognition at the annual National Home Demonstration Agents' Assn., meeting in Chicago, this week.

1. Sift together dry ingredients into medium-sized bowl and add egg, milk and shortening. 2. Beat with rotary beater until smooth—about one minute—do not overbeat. 3. Pour batter into hot greased corn stick pan, and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) 15 or 20 minutes. Makes 14 small corn sticks.

LITTLE DOG IN HIGH OATS

I was going over a farm this week when I saw a little dog jumping high in a well covered pasture as he tried to locate a rabbit it was running. It reminded me of a little dog in high oats, that we used to have.

He would jump very high and then come down all spread out in the oats, and jump again. Another dog did none of this, but used his head and kept on the trail and soon was in active pursuit of the rabbit. This suggests a very good way to do any work; don't get excited about it, but make a definite plan and follow it through.

The honor is bestowed upon an agent because of her record of distinguished service to the people with whom she works and because of her devotion to the aims and ideals of the Extension Service.

With her artistic sense, she has helped the women of Licking County see the beautiful as well as the useful side of things.

Mrs. Haynes works with 33 organized groups throughout the county, plus several special interest groups.

MRS. HAYNES has done extension work in Licking County for 13 years. She is regarded as an outstanding teacher with high standards and one who has the ability to make others work for high standards. With her artistic sense, she has helped the women of Licking County see the beautiful as well as the useful side of things.

Mrs. Haynes works with 33 organized groups throughout the county, plus several special interest groups.

Miss Fanner has done extension work in Washington County for the last 10 years. Developing leadership in the people with whom she works has been one of her prime objectives. As a result, the county has one of the most active home economics councils in the state. Miss Fanner has a well-rounded basic program which includes all phases of family living. Each phase of this program contributed to the attainment of the goals set up by the home council.

A rural reading program set up for Washington county by the Marietta public library, the Grange and the Farm Bureau was the result of Miss Fanner's efforts. The

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

A few days ago while visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Duff at their home on N. North St., my attention was attracted by a very unusual drawing, in colors, of a farm home. I soon learned some very interesting things regarding the painting, which is the work of an itinerant French artist H. Dousa, and drawn in 1875.

It pictures the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Parrett, who, in 1829, purchased 600 acres of choice land in the Parrett Station community, in an area known as the Spotswood Military Survey, for $6 per acre.

The house in the drawing was built on Creamer Rd. in 1833 and was the first house in the community to be built of sawed weather boarding (poplar) and with plaster, on lath on the ceiling and walls. It had a large fireplace with a large mantle, and presses at each side built of walnut lumber, which was abundant and cheap when the house was built 127 years ago.

An extraordinary thing in connection with the picture and farm is that the drawing shows four large pine trees standing in front of the house. Lightning struck every one of the trees and killed them.

In 1876 John A. Parrett, son of Eli, purchased the homestead part of the farm and lived there until 1894. He was the father of Mrs. Duff.

H. Dousa painted other pictures and made other drawings of homes in Fayette County. One of these is in possession of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Coffman, city.

CROWDED SCHOOLS

Speaking of present - day crowded schools, let's take a peek back at the Little Red School Houses in Fayette County 50 years and more ago.

Take John Baughn, of Route 35, for instance, he taught school 15 years when the number of scholars ranged from 40 to 60 in the one - room schools at Johnstown, Dayton Rd.; Buckeye and Camp View, on the Palmer Rd.

The same situation was duplicated in many parts of the county where the boys and girls were crowded into one - room schools until every seat was taken and virtually every seat contained one more student that it was meant to accommodate.

BLACK BEAR HUNTING

As late as 1810, or near that date, bear hunting was still a real sport among pioneers who wished a little excitement, and at that time the main bear territory was in the low lands southwest of Milledgeville, known as "The Slashes."

Soil Conservation Plans Developed By Future Farmers

The junior and senior Future Farmers of America students in the Wilton and Allensville chapters in Vinton County are developing conservation plans on their home farms.

The students have been given training in land and soil judging and farm planning. Several of the boys have conservation farm plans in effect now on their home farm and it is hoped more of the boys will become cooperators with the district and also carry their plans into effect with help from the Soil Conservation Service.

The first step the boys do is make a simple soil map of their home farm, using the land - judging score card as a guide. They will then plan their farms, using the soil map to make decisions. Their plan will include proper land use, soil - building rotations, agronomic treatment, and mechanical water control measures where needed.

The FFA students are being assisted in field and class room work by Soil Conservationist George L. Schmelzer and Soil Scientist Charles Innis, employees of the federal Soil Conservation Service. "These boys," declared Schmelzer, "will, without doubt, be among the future cooperators of the Vinton County Soil Conservation District."

The area was filled with undergrowth, including willows, and was more or less swampy. But there was enough high ground in the large tract to make the place inviting for black bears, which formerly infested this entire area in great numbers. The whole swampy area was later drained by cutting open ditches through it.

When they hunted black bear in "the slashes," two or more early settlers took their rifle and plenty of ammunition, to say nothing of long hunting knives to use if they came to a hand-to-hand (or hand-to-paw) encounter with a bear.

Sometimes a hunter got pretty badly clawed before he succeeded in dispatching the bear with his knife after the animal was wounded, and more than one hunter was saved from possible death by the timely interference of his hunting companions.

If one shot from the old muzzle loading rifle did not bring the bear down, the first hunter would reload while his companion or companions tried their luck with their rifles. If the second man was not handy, then it was necessary to fight it out with the angry, wounded bear.

Gale Parrett, of near Parrett Station, recalls hearing his ancestors tell of their thrilling experiences in "the slashes," the last place in the community where the bears sought shelter and safety.

PERSIMMON PUDDING

Yes, persimmon pudding, I never heard of it until recently, but no doubt some of the pioneer residents here knew how to prepare the fruit, to the best advantage, as attested by the accompanying recipe, which was used in Washington County, Ind., at least 75 years ago. It comes to me through the kindness of Mrs. O. E. Bonnell, 411 E. Market St., and it was handed down to her by ancestors.

Here is the recipe, and it sounds good to say the least;

PERSIMMON PUDDING

One quart of persimmons, run through colander, 1 1/2 cups sugar. Two teaspoons baking powder; one teaspoon soda; 1/2 teaspoon salt; three eggs; four cups sweet milk; four cups flour; two teaspoons cinnamon; teaspoon allspice; one teaspoon ground cloves; half cup of butter.

Sift spices with flour. Add flour and milk alternately, starting with flour. Grease large pan approximately 10 by 14 inches with butter for baking pudding. Bake slowly one hour at 325 degrees.

GOOD TURKEY DINNER

Women of the Good Hope Methodist Church WSCS lived up to their reputation for serving excellent meals Thursday evening, when a turkey dinner, served family style to approximately 460 persons.

The supper was served in the Wayne Township Hall, with Mrs. Everett Rife as general chairman of the supper committee. Mrs. Thomas Braden is president of the organization.

The serving was prompt and efficient, and the food was praised as being delicious and abundant. It required four seatings to feed the large number of diners, most of whom were from Washington C. H.

Efficiency was shown in all departments, not forgetting the faithful workers back scene who washed the dishes.

The menu consisted of roast turkey, (done to a turn), mashed potatoes, giblet gravy, dressing, green beans, cranberry sauce, celery, carrots, pickles, bread, butter, jelly, date - nut pudding, and Coffee. The tables were attractive with bouquets of fall flowers with chrysanthemums predominating. Part of the food was purchased and part was donated. The amount cleared by the society has not been ascertained.

Just before serving started Mrs. Virgil Garinger and Mrs. John Knisley suffered severe burns on their legs when a large container of hot giblet gravy and large pan of hot water were accidentally overturned on top of a stove.

Advice on Buying Poultry

Homemakers needn't wonder any more whether to buy whole small turkey roasters or cut-up pieces to get the most meat for their money. A recent poultry research study at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station has supplied the answers.

Ready-to-cook turkey fryers produced 54 per cent edible meat in this test, states A. R. Winter, chairman of the station's poultry science department. That's about 3 per cent higher than for chicken broilers and 12 per cent higher than for young geese.

Breasts yielded the highest percentage of edible meat - 65; legs and thighs, 57 per cent; wings, 47 per cent; and back, 41 per cent. Based on ready - to - cook carcass weight (not including neck and giblets) the percent of edible meat on the breast was 20.6; legs and thighs, 18.2; back, 8.9; and wings, 6.5 per cent.

In buying turkey fryer parts, you'll need one and one-half pounds of breast to produce one pound of cooked meat. For legs and thighs it takes 1.8 pounds, and for wings, 2.1 pounds.

Winter says more and more consumers are buying the small size turkeys in place of chicken roasters and capons. Moreover, there is a growing preference for cut - up parts, chiefly because they are easier to prepare.

Community Institute Speakers Eye Ohio 10 Years from Now

COLUMBUS — What will Ohio be like 10 years from now?

She'll be an industrial giant with 11 million people. Many of her rural communities will be populated by a rural-urban blend of farmers, part - time farmers, and city workers who prefer county living. Her number of full - time farmers will be only about 6 per cent of her total population. Several of her counties already are in this category.

These are some of the ideas which speakers will carry to Ohio's Community Institutes this fall and winter.

Ohio State University extension specialists and staff members raised the curtain for a glimpse of Ohio in 1965 at an annual Community Institute staff conference Oct. 18 and 19 on the university campus. Those attending the conference included lay leaders who will serve as speakers for the institute schedule.

OHIO'S POPULATION picture is changing rapidly, conference speakers said. In 10 years, they predicted, 74 percent of its people will be urban, 20 per cent rural non - farm, and 6 per cent farm.

The trend is toward larger families in the cities, smaller families on farms, and more part - time farmers.

Nearly two - fifths of the farmers in Ohio now work 100 days or more off the farm.

What about the general economic outlook for Ohio and the nation next year?

Here's what conference speakers predicted: The general business economy is booming; it may level off slightly in 1957. Employment will continue at record levels. The farming industry as a whole is in good financial condition, but the inefficient farmer with a big debt may be in for trouble. Land values, now their highest in history probably will continue high. Foreign trade may increase slightly.

The Community Institute association elected these officers for 1956-57: Howard M. Wells, McArthur, president; Mrs. George L. Peters, Oak Harbor, vice president, and Miss Margaret A. Huffman, Columbus, secretary - treasurer.

Some good pointers to follow in vaccinating your poultry are: Vaccinate only when the flock is in good health, complete the program before the pullets start to lay, and have the vaccination done by a qualified person.

Dust Glad Bulbs Before Storing

Protect your gladioli bulbs from thrips injury by dusting with 3 or 5 per cent DDT soon after digging, advises D. Lyle Goleman, Ohio State University extension entomologist.

These tiny dark colored insects usually retreat into crevices between the base of the petals and the folds of the leaves, Goleman says. Stored corms often become infested and soon become sticky from the bleeding of injured tissues. Corms severely injured become corky and fail to germinate.

The treatment is simple, Goleman explains. After digging merely put the bulbs in a paper bag, add a little DDT dust, shake until evenly coated, then store as usual.

Advice on Buying Poultry

Homemakers needn't wonder any more whether to buy whole small turkey roasters or cut-up pieces to get the most meat for their money. A recent poultry research study at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station has supplied the answers.

Ready-to-cook turkey fryers produced 54 per cent edible meat in this test, states A. R. Winter, chairman of the station's poultry science department. That's about 3 per cent higher than for chicken broilers and 12 per cent higher than for young geese.

Breasts yielded the highest percentage of edible meat - 65; legs and thighs, 57 per cent; wings, 47 per cent; and back, 41 per cent. Based on ready - to - cook carcass weight (not including neck and giblets) the percent of edible meat on the breast was 20.4; legs and thighs, 18.2; back, 8.9; and wings, 6.5 per cent.

In buying turkey fryer parts, you'll need one and one-half pounds of breast to produce one pound of cooked meat. For legs and thighs it takes 1.8 pounds, and for wings, 2.1 pounds.

Winter says more and more consumers are buying the small size

Community Institute Speakers Eye Ohio 10 Years from Now

COLUMBUS — What will Ohio be like 10 years from now?

She'll be an industrial giant with 11 million people. Many of her rural communities will be populated by a rural-urban blend of farmers, part - time farmers, and city workers who prefer county living. Her number of full - time farmers will be only about 6 per cent of her total population. Several of her counties already are in this category.

These are some of the ideas which speakers will carry to Ohio's Community Institutes this fall and winter.

Ohio State University extension specialists and staff members raised the curtain for a glimpse of Ohio in 1965 at an annual Community Institute staff conference Oct. 18 and 19 on the university campus. Those attending the conference included lay leaders who will serve as speakers for the institute schedule.

OHIO'S POPULATION picture is changing rapidly, conference speakers said. In 10 years, they predicted, 74 percent of its people will be urban, 20 per cent rural non - farm, and 6 per cent farm.

The trend is toward larger families in the cities, smaller families on farms, and more part - time farmers.

Nearly two - fifths of the farmers in Ohio now work 100 days or more off the farm.

What about the general economic outlook for Ohio and the nation next year?

Here's what conference speakers predicted: The general business economy is booming; it may level off slightly in 1957. Employment will continue at record levels. The farming industry as a whole is in good financial condition, but the inefficient farmer with a big debt may be in for trouble. Land values, now their highest in history probably will continue high. Foreign trade may increase slightly.

The Community Institute association elected these officers for 1956-57: Howard M. Wells, McArthur, president; Mrs. George L. Peters, Oak Harbor, vice president, and Miss Margaret A. Huffman, Columbus, secretary - treasurer.

Some good pointers to follow in vaccinating your poultry are: Vaccinate only when the flock is in good health, complete the program before the pullets start to lay, and have the vaccination done by a qualified person.

Dust Glad Bulbs Before Storing

Protect your gladiolus bulbs from thrips injury by dusting with 3 or 5 per cent DDT soon after digging, advises D. Lyle Goleman, Ohio State University extension entomologist.

These tiny dark colored insects usually retreat into crevices between the base of the petals and the folds of the leaves. Goleman says. Stored corms often become infested and soon become sticky from the bleeding of injured tissues. Corms severely injured become corky and fail to germinate. The treatment is simple, Goleman explains. After digging merely put the bulbs in a paper bag, add a little DDT dust, shake until evenly coated, then store as usual.

Your Vote May Be A Deciding Factor

Time and again most of us have noted that a single vote has changed the result in many an election.

On the eve of the important presidential election of 1956, it might be well for all of us to consider this fact, that a single vote may be of great importance, in a county, a district, a state or even a nation.

No one can predict that this will be true, yet your own single vote could be a deciding factor in some important race or issue.

In 1948 only 51.5 per cent of Americans of voting age went to the polls. In 1952, that record was improved but then only 63 per cent of eligible voters cast their ballots.

Other free countries around the world surpass our voting record and in some countries, of course, voting is almost if not entirely compulsory. However, in America, thankfully, we have the opportunity of voting for whom we please or not voting at all — but we should remember that this freedom is best guaranteed by voting.

Remember votes are counted ONE by ONE. Yours may be the deciding one. For instance, one vote elected Thomas Jefferson President of the United States. William Henry Harrison also was elected by one vote.

In 1948 two important states—one in the East and one in the West—were won in the Presidential race by the margin of just one vote per precinct.

Your vote will be counted!

Hungary and Food

By George Sokolsky

Revolutions usually explode spontaneously, although they are planned for decades. It is often so that the planners have little to do with the actual uprising and sometimes, they are able to take hold of the situation and oft-times, it gets beyond them with an amazing rapidity.

The Russian revolution of 1917 started as a palace revolt of a pro-all group, but the Bolsheviks seized it after nearly eight months and then they reaped all the fruits of the revolution. Lack of food is one of the most usual causes for the discontent of a people. The Hungarians are a wheat-meat eating nation, accustomed to good cooking and a plentiful supply.

In April 1952, the Moscow Economic Conference was called by the World Peace Council, a Communist group, with the object of improving the trade of Communist countries. The Hungarian delegation to this conference stated that beginning with 1953, Hungary would be able to export 300,000 tons of grain a year to Western countries. This represented about half of Hungary's Pre-World War II grain exports.

However, by the end of 1952, the Hungarian government had to admit that the crops had fallen far short of the planned targets. Food exports were slashed, but that did not eliminate the food shortage within Hungary, which once had been regarded as the "bread basket" of Europe. While subsequent harvests were somewhat better, this year, Hungary was forced to buy grain in Canada.

Weather did its part, but also bad management of the collective farms and lack of fertilizer played a considerable role in producing an inadequate productivity. A free people does not function competently under a collective system. At least two generations have to be killed to make a go of collectivism.

A people may be willing to suffer austerity for their own nation, but surely not for an alien conqueror. And the Russians are aliens, so far as the Hungarians are concerned. Centuries ago, when the Magyars settled in their Danubian land, they separated the east Slavs from the west Slavs, the north Slavs from the south Slavs. Then they were required by the course of events to decide whether they would choose the Orthodox Church of the east or the Roman Catholic Church of the west.

They choose Rome, largely because they feared the East. Although Hungary and Poland have been related and even at one time united by marriage, there is no record from the beginning of the Magyar invasion of Europe until the Communist conquest of their country by Stalin of the Hungarians ever turning eastward for their culture, their religion or any other phase of their lives. For Hungary culturally associated itself with Western Europe.

It is therefore not astonishing that the Hungarian revolt should be so violent and so positively anti-Russian.

Poland, on the other hand, includes numerous Russian elements, remnants not only of Czarist days when Poland was part of the Russian Empire, but also from earlier times when Poland ruled over parts of what is now Russia. Also the languages of Russia and Poland are cognate, in the Slavic group. While the Poles are Roman Catholic, some of the related peoples on the borders are Orthodox as are still many of the inhabitants of Russia.

Polish intellectuals, while nationalistic, have a history of association with Russian revolutionists in the Czarist days, and many of them have long been Marxists. I make this point only to emphasize one difference between Hungary and Poland in the present situation.

However, Poland has also suffered from unsatisfactory crops and also from excessive withdrawal of manufactured goods from Poland to Russia. As a matter of fact, Poland, to avoid the effects of cyclical tendencies in the west to which Poland exported coal, accepted a doctrine of concentrating exports to Soviet Russia and to the satellites. Poland has been the biggest foreign exchange earner in the Soviet bloc because of her coal exports. To this country, Poland also exports ham, although there is no shortage of home-grown pigs in the United States.

It is surprising that no word has come from Bulgaria. This country, even when Georgi Dimitrov was alive, accepted the Titoist doctrine and was duly slapped down by Stalin. It has since gone through a difficult economic period and one wonders what the Bulgarian response to events in Poland and Hungary is.

Symptoms usually are a low grade fever, loss of appetite, headache, fatigue, nausea, vomiting, a feeling of uneasiness, and a pain in the upper right portion of the abdomen. Stools might be light-colored, too.

Better call a doctor right away when these symptoms appear since laboratory tests are needed to definitely diagnose the illness as hepatitis.

While most victims recover after six to eight weeks of illness, the disease can at times have a serious consequence.

Bender's Report On Dulles Denied

WASHINGTON (AP)—White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty says he knows of no planned changes in President Eisenhower's cabinet following the election.

The question arose in connection with a statement by Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) that he had information from "responsible sources" that Secretary of State Dulles intends to resign. A Dulles spokesman promptly denied the report.

Hagerty said he knew "absolutely nothing of it—I have never heard it mentioned."

Annual TB Seal Sale Gets Boost at Game

The annual Christmas Seal sale got a boost just before the start of Friday night's football game at Gardner Park here.

Calling attention to the anniversaries of the Red Cross and Tuberculosis and Health Association, the public announcement said:

"The year 1956 is an anniversary year for two great voluntary organizations, the American Red Cross, celebrating its 75th year of existence, and the Tuberculosis Assn., celebrating the 50th anniversary of the first Christmas Seal sale ever conducted in the United States. Both of these voluntary movements started as a result of a humanitarian need, and have been marching forward year after year. The Washington High School Marching Band tonight joins this march and pays tribute to the American Red Cross, to which the American people have turned for 75 years for help in times of local and national emergency.

"It is of interest to everyone to learn that a small group of Red Cross workers in Delaware conducted the first seal sale, and sold the little stamps that later were to become a tradition and provide the initial means for combating the disease of tuberculosis. For 10 years the banners of the Red Cross and the double-barred cross flew together over the growing Christmas Seal parade. For the past 36 years the TB associations have been moving forward in their own voluntary effort toward the eventual eradication of tuberculosis.

"The WHS Marching Band proudly salutes the 3,000 TB associations throughout the country and joins the parade of progress designed to create more healthful communities for everyone."

What's A Child Worth?

What's YOUR answer? Suppose it's your child. How often have you said (or heard friends say), "I wouldn't take a million for that kid!"? And then discover a week later, that neither you nor your friends, were willing to put out just a few dollars to get needed school facilities for that same child!

Doesn't it surprise you to find that the value of a child can vary from priceless to less than a few dollars in a matter of days? Well, not really, because it actually doesn't. It's just that oftentimes we tend to forget that our children and their futures are pretty closely tied to the kind and quality of the education we can give them. Their future, and thus the future of our country, depends on YOUR support. Let's see to it that the children of our community get the education they deserve. In the long run it costs less

Vote "FOR" on the CITY SCHOOL BOND ISSUE and TAX LEVY on November 6. The passage of both of these proposals is urgent if we are going to provide today's children with an adequate education for their future and ours.

Informal visiting was enjoyed during the remainder of the evening.

In addition to the honored guest those enjoying the event were Mrs. Robert Fortier, sons Donnie and Tommy, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ward, daughters Toni and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bower, son Donald Wayne and Mrs. Ray Brandenburg.

Art' will be given by Mrs. Frank Mayo and Mrs. Herbert Perrill, which will carry out the theme for the year "Religions of The World."

This evening's study was arranged by a former member, Mrs. Andrew Sparks, who now resides in Cleveland, and promises to be most interesting as well as instructive.

What's A Child Worth?

What's YOUR answer? Suppose it's your child. How often have you said (or heard friends say), "I wouldn't take a million for that kid!"? And then discover a week later, that neither you nor your friends, were willing to put out just a few dollars to get needed school facilities for that same child!

Doesn't it surprise you to find that the value of a child can vary from priceless to less than a few dollars in a matter of days? Well, not really, because it actually doesn't. It's just that oftentimes we tend to forget that our children and their futures are pretty closely tied to the kind and quality of the education we can give them. Their future, and thus the future of our country, depends on YOUR support. Let's see to it that the children of our community get the education they deserve. In the long run it costs less

Many Types of Storage for Fayette Corn Crop

B. E. KELLEY
As Fayette County's big corn crop — and it is a big one — is being picked from the fields, the problem of storage is being met by the individual farmers who, in many instances, use wire pens for holding the corn as well as a wide range of other types of granaries.

In the days of rail fences when rails were plentiful, the usual method of storing corn, in addition to permanent granaries, was to build a rail pen the length of the rails, fitting the latter close together so corn could not roll out between them. I have seen as many as 12 of these rail pens in a single string, with each pen holding 400 to 600 bushels of corn.

This year Fayette County's estimated 72,500 acres of corn will yield an estimated 4,700,000 bushels, and at the current price of around $1.12 per bushel, will be worth over five million dollars.

Belief has been expressed that the average yield of corn this year will be equal to that of last year when the average reached 65 bushels to the acre, which was four bushels under the record-breaking yield of 69 bushels in 1954.

IT IS TRUE that some fields which were damaged by water early in the season, will not show an average yield, but there are many plots where the yield will go considerably beyond the 65 average anticipated.

Many types of corn cribs, some of them very temporary in construction, are being used to house the crop of gold.

So far this year in my trips about the county, I have not seen a single rail pen filled with corn.

There are a large number of cribs or pens constructed of wire; some of picket fencing; others of a combination of steel framework and steel wire; some of posts planted in the ground with wire strung between the posts, and still others built of wooden framework with wire to hold the corn.

Then there are the slatted granaries built in connection with sheds for housing farm equipment, and metal cribs, most of which are too tight to hold newly picked corn.

There probably are many more corn cribs without roofs than with roofs, particularly where the corn is to be fed without much delay, and exposure to the weather does not cause too much damage unless the corn is allowed to remain for a considerable length of time.

THIS YEAR, a number of farmers have discovered that their first picked corn is in danger of spoiling, and some of it has been moved to prevent spoilage.

Early pickers found that the corn contained a great deal more moisture than they at first believed.

Some farmers have not yet started picking their corn, due to the large amount of moisture it still contains, even after the heavy frost Sept. 20 and the subsequent good drying weather.

Nearly all of the corn in this part of Ohio is standing better than it has for years, and, as a result, the amount of corn picked will be greater than where part of the corn is down, and tangled, as the result of windstorms late in the season.

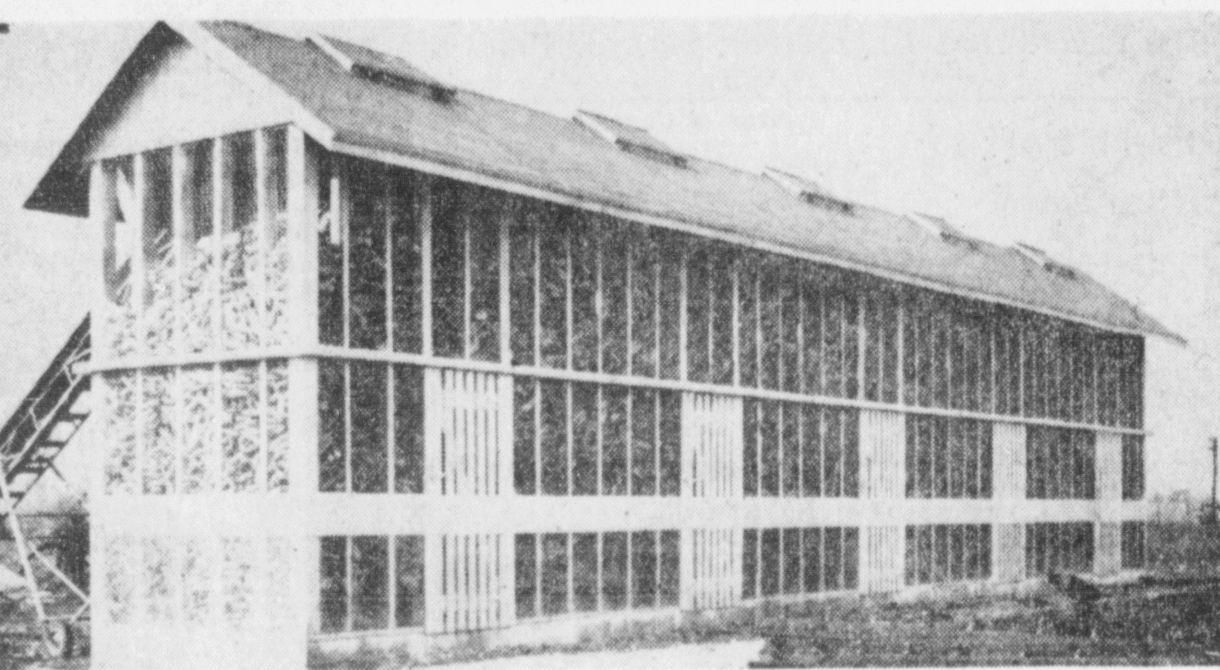

Last year much of the corn was blown down, and a part was lost, by reason of the ears spoiling where they touched the ground and the inability of the pickers to reach all of the ears.

Practically all of the corn in this community is being stored on the farm, and will be fed to livestock, chiefly hogs.

NOT A GREAT DEAL of the corn will be left for market after the livestock is fed off during the next 12 months.

On Oct. 1 there was more corn stored in the nation than at any other time on record for that date.

This year the commercial corn area in Ohio was extended to include Athens, Columbiana and Mahoning counties. There now are 71 commercial corn counties in Ohio, the selection of these areas being based on an average production in 1947 to 1956 of 450 bushels or more per farm, or four or more bushels per acre of farm land in a county.

PROBABLY MORE CORN CRIBS have been modeled after this crib, which is located on the J. H. McWilliams farm, a mile east of Washington C. H., on the Circleville Road, than on any other crib in the county. It was erected several years ago and embodies some new ideas. Scores of Farmers from a wide radius have inspected the crib and obtained data for similar cribs of their own.

FOUR TYPES of farm storage bins or cribs are shown here, and a fifth was just out of camera range on the right. They are on the Robert H. Green farm, Robinson Road. The steel crib at right is for small grain storage, and next to it is a steel frame and wire crib. The third is largely steel wire to hold the corn, and the one in the background is the post-and wire type of crib. Out of camera range at right was a fifth type of storage, a slatted granary.

1956 County Highway Program Nearly Complete, Check Shows

The Fayette County highway construction program, planned for 1956 on county roads, is rapidly nearing completion.

The work has been accomplished through the interest and authorization of Fayette County's board of commissioners, Ralph Minton, Robert Cockerill and Clifford Hughes, plus the cooperative efforts of County Engineer Wagner, his staff and working crews.

It is reported that state highway officials have highly commended the vast amount of improvement work here this year.

It is also known that visitors from other counties and states have commented on the enterprising attitude and action of these county officials which has placed Fayette's present improved county road system in the top bracket of counties in Ohio in the matter of good roads.

Of the 293,467 total miles of county roads in Fayette, practically every mile now has been improved within the past few years. Of this number 116.44 miles have been given some type of improvement this year.

A check at the county engineer's office showed that in this year's program of improvements there were 36 miles repaved with an application of 1 1/4 inch thickness of asphalt and stone blade - mix and seal jobs done.

IN ADDITION there were 18 miles paved with 1 1/4 - inch thickness of plant - mixed machine laid asphaltic material.

Also there were 3.5 miles of initial treatment consisting of a sub-stantial asphalt prime coat and a heavy seal wearing surface.

Included in the program were 25 miles of county roads sealed with a substantial wearing surface application.

Officials Urge Health Levy Aid

The Fayette County Health Department today issued a statement in the form of a final appeal for public support of the renewal of its .2 of a mill levy. In doing so it called attention to various services vital to the county's health protection program which county health officials say may be endangered if the levy failed to pass.

This levy is non-controversial but is one, its supporters say, which in the tension and interest being given to other issues, might easily be lost by reason of voters' interest in various other matters which have for weeks been foremost in receiving public attention.

THE STATEMENT issued by Health Department officials says: "Your health department for the past two years has given health services to all sections of the city and county. Besides Fayette's county roads there are 207.43 miles of township roads and 147 miles of state and federal roads in this county.

County officials say there is still more work to be done and they look forward to another extensive improvement program to be planned for next year.

This resurfacing and improvement program required 560,000 gallons of asphalt and about 20,000 tons of sized and graded clean crushed stone furnished from quarries in the county.

In addition to the county road program, the county's highway crews improved and surfaced 35 miles of township roads. This was done with permission of the county commissioners under the supervision of the county engineer's department. The townships reimbursed the county for labor costs besides furnishing the material.

THE BLADE - MIX and seal jobs carried on this year took place on the following county roads, Barger, Anderson, Worthington, Miami Trace, West Lancaster, Reid, Carr, Wildwood, another stretch of the Miami Trace road from the Ross County line west; Harmony, Cook - Yankeetown and Limes.

The sections of roads improved varied according to need from slightly over six miles down to one half mile. Most of them covered from two to about 3 1/2 miles.

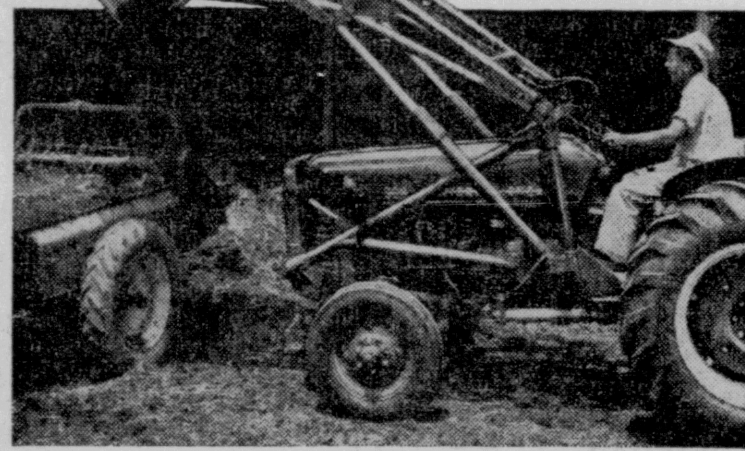

Those roads improved by plant-mix machine were: Bloomingburg-New Holland, Lewis, Waterloo, Milledgeville - Octa and Good Hope-New Holland.

THOSE WHICH underwent sealing and priming were the Jamison, York and Camp Grove roads. The county highways undergoing seal coats only were: Peddicord-Forest, Fairgrounds drives, Upper Jamestown, Creek, Gregg, a part of the old U. S. Rt. 35 at West Lancaster, White Oak, Haines, Bogus, Harmony, Ford and driveways about the county farm.

The county and township road bridge widening program, for this year, also is reported progressing

Letter to the Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

In order to clearly discuss the current Miami Trace Board school construction proposal we must review their program of last November.

Their 1955 proposal called for approximately $1,200,000 to be spent for a new high school to be located near Washington C. H., and $440,000 approximately, to be spent on elementary repair and improvement.

Thanks to the efforts of citizens who questioned the validity and worth of this proposal, it was defeated. Did it deserve to be defeated?

The Rural Parents Assn. told us then, that if that issue was voted, it would create excess school capacity and represent a tremendous waste of our money.

Miami Trace said this wasn't so, — that their plan was right, — and had been developed from a tremendous effort and investigation and that the voters should pass the issue.

Well, — who was right?

The RPA, of course.

This county can thank its stars that the RPA and voters defeated that issue because, if Miami Trace had had its way, we would have spent almost a half million dollars on excess buildings scheduled for abandonment.

Within a few weeks of this issue's defeat, Bloomingsburg, Jeffersonville, and Paint school districts were added to Miami Trace and a "fact-finders" committee was appointed to develop another building program.

Last spring, Herbert Perrill, acting as spokesman for the Miami Trace District and the fact finders, stated that due to finding of considerable unused space in the Miami Trace elementary schools, Miami Trace would be able to absorb all the rural high school students with relative ease and no hardship.

He further added that the elementary schools were found to be in generally good condition, needing some cleaning and new lighting.

Did this support the demand for almost half a million dollars they had shortly before tried to pass, as needed for elementary rehabilitation?

Now, their 1956 proposal asks for approximately $1,562,000 to be spent for a new high school and approximately $90,000 to be spent for elementary rehabilitation or repair.

Let's consider the approximately 569 high school students now housed in Good Hope, Madison Mills, Bloomingsburg and Jeffersonville schools.

Whenever they are taken from these buildings, the classrooms they now occupy become empty space. At 30 pupils to the room, this means 19 classrooms or school space enough, — for example, — on the basis of 1955-56 school year enrollment, to house the elementary school students of Concord-Staunton, Green - Olive, Jasper, Marion, Paint-Bookwalter and Perry-New Martinsburg.

What do they intend to do? Abandon your school?

What happens if the seventh and eighth grades of Junior High are taken from some of the rural and village schools and sent to the proposed high school to use its space?

Immediately, there is excess space in the present existing school buildings equal to 900 students or 30 classrooms, or enough excess to justify the abandonment of all elementary buildings, including those in Union Township, — except the Jeffersonville, Bloomingsburg, Madison Mills and Good Hope buildings.

Are you ready to see your elementary schools abandoned? Are you ready to increase your taxes to create waste space, and pay more and higher taxes to operate an over-built expensive school system?

In the name of common sense, can you justify the spending of money on an elementary school plant which, if the bond issue passes, is already too large and ready to be abandoned?

Every farm owner and farm operator in Fayette County, every business man in the villages knows the already tremendous drain on his earnings caused by present taxes. Every one of them knows the strain of higher costs, inflation, and lower income, now.

Almost everyone agrees that small inefficient high schools are unable to give adequate education to our children, and that the high school program of Fayette County needs improvement.

We will find the best method when we begin to cooperate and look at the total school assets, — buildings and children, of all the school area, — rural, village, and city, — in this small county.

If we vote the Miami Trace bond issue in because we have closed our eyes to common sense, but opened our ears to propaganda, we are hooked, — and our children, our community, our families, farms and businesses will pay for our folly for a long time.

The Department of Educational Research and School Plant Planning at Ohio State University, says, the most efficient school plant is one operating near normal capacity. And, that it is better to risk under-building than over-building.

Under-building can be remedied, but an over-built plant represents wasted money and increased operating expense, with no remedy.

WASHINGTON C.H., OHIO

Letter to the Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

In order to clearly discuss the current Miami Trace Board school construction proposal we must review their program of last November.

Their 1955 proposal called for approximately $1,200,000 to be spent for a new high school to be located near Washington C. H., and $440,000 approximately, to be spent on elementary repair and improvement.

Thanks to the efforts of citizens who questioned the validity and worth of this proposal, it was defeated. Did it deserve to be defeated?

The Rural Parents Assn. told us then, that if that issue was voted, it would create excess school capacity and represent a tremendous waste of our money.

Miami Trace said this wasn't so, — that their plan was right, — and had been developed from a tremendous effort and investigation and that the voters should pass the issue.

Well, — who was right? The RPA, of course.

This county can thank its stars that the RPA and voters defeated that issue because, if Miami Trace had had its way, we would have spent almost a half million dollars on excess buildings scheduled for abandonment.

Within a few weeks of this issue's defeat, Bloomington, Jeffersonville, and Paint school districts were added to Miami Trace and a "fact-finders" committee was appointed to develop another building program.

Last spring, Herbert Perrill, acting as spokesman for the Miami Trace District and the fact finders, stated that due to finding of considerable unused space in the Miami Trace elementary schools, Miami Trace would be able to absorb all the rural high school students with relative ease and no hardship.

He further added that the elementary schools were found to be in generally good condition, needing some cleaning and new lighting.

Did this support the demand for almost half a million dollars to be spent for a new high school and approximately $90,000 to be spent for elementary rehabilitation or repair?

Now, their 1956 proposal asks for approximately $1,562,000 to be spent for a new high school and approximately $90,000 to be spent for elementary rehabilitation or repair.

Let's consider the approximately 569 high school students now housed in Good Hope, Madison Mills, Bloomington and Jeffersonville schools.

Whenever they are taken from these buildings, the classrooms they now occupy become empty space. At 30 pupils to the room, this means 19 classrooms or school space enough, — for example, — on the basis of 1955-56 school year enrollment, to house the elementary school students of Concord-Staunton, Green - Olive, Jasper, Marion, Paint-Bookwalter and Perry-New Martinsburg.

What do they intend to do? Abandon your school? What happens if the seventh and eighth grades of Junior High are taken from some of the rural and village schools and sent to the proposed high school to use its space?

Immediately, there is excess space in the present existing school buildings equal to 900 students or 30 classrooms, or enough excess to justify the abandonment of all elementary buildings, including those in Union Township, — except the Jeffersonville, Bloomington, Madison Mills and Good Hope buildings.

Are you ready to see your elementary schools abandoned? Are you ready to increase your taxes to create waste space, and pay more and higher taxes to operate an over-built expensive school system?

In the name of common sense, can you justify the spending of money on an elementary school plant which, if the bond issue passes, is already too large and ready to be abandoned?

Every farm owner and farm operator in Fayette County, every business man in the villages knows the already tremendous drain on his earnings caused by present taxes. Every one of them knows the strain of higher costs, inflation, and lower income, now.

Almost everyone agrees that small inefficient high schools are unable to give adequate education to our children, and that the high school program of Fayette County needs improvement.

We will find the best method when we begin to cooperate and look at the total school assets, — buildings and children, of all the school area, — rural, village, and city, — in this small county.

If we vote the Miami Trace bond issue in because we have closed our eyes to common sense, but opened our ears to propaganda, we are hooked, — and our children, our community, our families, farms and businesses will pay for our folly for a long, long time.

The Department of Educational Research and School Plant Planning at Ohio State University, says, the most efficient school plant is one operating near normal capacity. And, that it is better to risk under-building than over-building. Under-building can be remedied, but an over-built plant represents wasted money and increased operating expense, with no remedy.

 THE MIAMI TRACE BOARD HAS NO PLANS OR INTENTIONS OF ABANDONING ANY SCHOOL BUILDINGS NOW.

The Board is fully aware that a problem involving facilities exists in the New Martinsburg Community and the need for a solution thereof. The fact that we must have and use all of this classroom space is one of the several reasons why we are asking the voters for a new RURAL HIGH SCHOOL.

You will note that by 1960, after constructing a new High School, we estimate that our grade schools will be operating at near capacity. WE NEED AND MUST USE ALL THESE GRADE SCHOOLS TO TAKE CARE OF OUR INCREASE IN ENROLLMENT.

Your tax cost for our proposal will be figured using mills not percentage increases. The cost to each taxpayer will be an average of 2.58 mills. This amounts to 23 cents per year on an acre of average Fayette County land.

Dodgers Explode For Ninth Win

OSAKA, Japan — The Brooklyn Dodgers exploded for seven runs in a big eighth inning rally to smother the Japan All-Stars 14-7 before 60,000 today.

Until the eighth the game had been tightly played and the All-Stars had tied the count at 7-7 in the seventh on a two-run homer by Mitsuhiro Sugiyama, outfielder for the Nankai Hawks.

Today's win gave the Dodgers a 9-2 record against Japanese teams with one game ending in a tie.

their right halfback, Art Bellisari, ran 22 yards around right end for a touchdown with the game less than four minutes old.

The Lions' defense just wouldn't seem to jell and remained inconsistent throughout.

Hilliards mixed its plays well, running the ends, plunging through the confused Washington line, and then passing.

WASHINGTON started to move downfield after taking the kickoff following the Hilliards' score. John Bainter ran the kickoff back 20 yards to his own 33. Roger McLean found a hole in the middle of the Wildcat line and broke through and down past the middle stripe to the 51. Bainter then tore around right end to the Hilliards' 23 and it looked like the Blue Lions were starting to click. But once they reached the 19-yard line on a plunge by Gary Stoddard, they were able to go no further and lost the ball on downs.

Hilliards quickly took advantage of the situation as Bellisari hit Bill Love with a pass, good for 65 yards. This time the Washington defense managed to buckle down, and at the end of the first quarter the score remained 6-0.

In the second period the Blue Lions were stopped on the 50-yard line and Bainter's attempted punt was blocked. Hilliards recovered on the Washington 31. Dick Harrison ran 26 yards around left end to put the ball on the 5 and Bellisari plunged over on a handoff from Gene Yore two plays later, making the score 12-0.

THE LIONS started another downfield drive as they took the kickoff. Several good runs by Bainter and McLean accounted for four successive first downs. With less than two minutes to go in the half the Lions had the ball on Hilliards 15. It was here that the Wildcats' 15-pound per-line man advantage paid off as they stopped the Lions from moving any further, and took possession on downs with 25 seconds remaining in the half.

The Washington line had not been able to hold back the powerful Hilliards line long enough to give the backfield a chance to do its stuff.

At the start of the third quarter Washington seemed to come to life, and for a few minutes it looked as if they were going to repeat last week's excellent second-half play. After a 16-yard kickoff return by Bainter, McLean took the ball on a handoff, found a hole in the Wildcat line, and dodged and twisted his way 67 yards to a touchdown. Less than a minute of play had elapsed and Washington fans were on their feet yelling and waiting for a home team victory.

HILLIARDS' backs Harrison and Allen Gray quickly hushed the Washington cheers as they sparked an 85-yard drive for a touchdown with Gray carrying over for the score. Yore kicked the extra point and with the score 19-6 it was obvious that only a miracle could save the willing Blue Lions.

But the miracle never happened as the brawny Wildcats continued to wear down the now Black and Blue Lions. Shortly before the end of the period McLean and Jim Wilson were shaken up on the same play. McLean was knocked cold when a Hilliards blocker landed on his head. Both boys were OK after the game.

The fourth quarter seemed to serve no more purpose than to fulfill football time requirements. Harrison scooted 14 yards around left end for a touchdown on the first play of the final period, and when Yore missed the conversion the score was 25-6.

WASHINGTON wasn't able to go anywhere after the ensuing kickoff when their attempted air attack failed. Bainter tried to kick on a fourth down and was thrown for a loss on his own 2-yard line after taking a bad snap from center.

With a first down and 2 yards to go for a score, the Wildcats' only problem was to decide who should be given the honor of picking up 6 more points. They chose a substitute back, Bob Hill, and he did his job well, running over the backs of his linemen and into the end zone.

The Wildcats missed the extra point and the score was 31-6.

A few minutes later the Washington offense came to life again as the evasive Bainter found an opening between tackle and guard and sneaked through for a 72-yard touchdown run while a flock of Wildcats trailed in his dust.

The talented quarterback then passed into the flat to Eldon Brown, who ran over with the extra point making the score 31-13.

YORE came right back, after Hilliards had taken Bainter's bad kickoff about midfield, and threw to Harrison for a 49-yard TD. Yore again booted low on his try for the extra point and the score was 37-13 with 9½ minutes left to play.

On the next play Lion right guard Paul Cox was knocked unconscious by a hard block and had to be carried from the field on a stretcher. He was taken to Memorial Hospital with a neck injury, but X-rays showed no broken bones. Cox regained consciousness about 15 minutes after the play and was resting comfortably in the Hospital Friday night.

There was no more scoring in the remainder of the game as both coaches sent in substitutes. Washington's second string quarterback, Chuck Hire, managed to lead his team to the Hilliards 14-yard line. But the final gun sounded with the score, 37-13.

ACTUALLY, statistics showed that the Blue Lions had not done as poorly as the score would indicate. The home team had more first downs, 11 to 9, more yards gained rushing, 387 to 258, and recovered more fumbles, 2 to 1, than their rough and tumble opponents. However, the Wildcats completed three forward passes good for 82 yards, while Washington didn't click on any.

Hilliards had the defense when they needed it. Washington seemed to lose its defense just when they needed it most.

"It's the problem we've been working on all season," lamented Washington Coach Fred Domenico after the game. "Somehow we just can't seem to beat it."

CLEVELAND NEWS

Oct. 1, 1956 — "President Eisenhower can do little to forward his plans for the future of America's peace, prosperity, and progress without Republican majorities in Congress. In his first two years, he was successful in three-fourths of his requests to Congress, when there were virtual Republican majorities. In the last two years, with Democratic majorities in Congress, he was able to accomplish less than half of his program.

"On Eisenhower's 10 vital issues in the past session, Bender not only voted for but worked for them. The President's request for Bender's re-election is the natural move of a leader who wishes to keep a tested friend and supporter... He has become one of the most helpful senators of our generation in terms of work, loyalty, and good sense. We urge his re-election on the record of his past and the promise of his future."

JOURNAL OF HERALD

Oct. 3, 1956 — "It would be worse than inconsistent for a Republican to vote for four more years of the Republican-Eisenhower administration and then vote to send to the senate a Democrat, even so uncertain a Democrat as Governor Lausche.

...how much worse than inconsistent it would be made plain when Senator Bender's record in both house and senate under the Eisenhower administration is considered. First in the house and for the past two years in the senate George Bender has been a loyal supporter of the President and his program.

OHIO STATE JOURNAL

Oct. 11, 1956 — "President Eisenhower is asking for a Republican Congress so that, if he is elected to a second term, he can have the organized backing of Republican committees in both Senate and House in advancing his program during the years ahead.

outstanding backers of the President's program.

"He is qualified for the United States Senate, as he has demonstrated during the past two years, and his election would give support to President Eisenhower in the second term which Ohioans give strong indication of favoring.

"The case for Bender is chiefly this: He has made a good senator, and his past service in both the Senate and the House would seem to merit his re-election."

CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR

Oct. 8, 1956 — "Although there was never any doubt about it, the President has underlined his endorsement of Republican Senator George Bender of Ohio...

"There is no matter of coat-tail riding in Bender's case. During 14 years in the House at Washington and the two in which he has been completing Senator Bob Taft's unexpired term, Bender has proved his vast energy, his clear grasp of the real issues of the day and his political courage.

"...So the choice this year for Ohio Republicans, and for all independents and former Democrats who want to continue the present era of peace and prosperity, should be clear as day: It is Eisenhower, Nixon and Bender."

For 26 years as a legislator, George Bender has fought for your interests. Here's how he has supported Ike's program:

VOTED to cut government spending by $24-billion in 3 years and eliminate ¼ million government jobs...

VOTED to extend social security to 11 million persons with liberalized benefits for all...

VOTED to start St. Lawrence Seaway, immeasurable value to Ohio.

VOTED to increase railroad retirement and unemployment benefits, extending unemployment insurance to 4 million government and small business workers...

VOTED to cut taxes $7½ billion a year. (Family tax savings average $100 a year)...

VOTED to help farmers expand markets, establish soil bank, dispose of $6 billion worth of surpluses...

VOTED to found Health, Education and Welfare Department, to supply $53 million worth of free polio vaccine, to expand vocational rehabilitation and medical research programs...

VOTED to expand conservation and natural resources development...

VOTED to start vast new highway program...

VOTED to advance civil rights of minorities...

Dodgers Explode For Ninth Win

OSAKA, Japan (U)—The Brooklyn Dodgers exploded for seven runs in a big eighth inning rally to smother the Japan All-Stars 14-7 before 60,000 today.

Until the eighth the game had been tightly played and the All-Stars had tied the count at 7-7 in the seventh on a two-run homer by Mitsuhiro Sugiyama, outfielder for the Nankai Hawks.

Today's win gave the Dodgers a 9-2 record against Japanese teams with one game ending in a tie.

their right halfback, Art Bellisari, ran 22 yards around right end for a touchdown with the game less than four minutes old.

The Lions' defense just wouldn't seem to jell and remained inconsistent throughout.

Hilliards mixed its plays well, running the ends, plunging through the confused Washington line, and then passing.

WASHINGTON started to move downfield after taking the kickoff following the Hilliards' score. John Bainter ran the kickoff back 20 yards to his own 33. Roger McLean found a hole in the middle of the Wildcat line and broke through and down past the midfield stripe to the 51. Bainter then tore around right end to the Hilliards' 23 and it looked like the Blue Lions were starting to click. But once they reached the 19 - yard line on a plunge by Gary Stoddard, they were able to go no further and lost the ball on downs.

Hilliards quickly took advantage of the situation as Bellisari hit Bill Love with a pass, good for 65 yards. This time the Washington defense managed to buckle down, and at the end of the first quarter the score remained 6-0.

In the second period the Blue Lions were stopped on the 50-yard line and Bainter's attempted punt was blocked. Hilliards recovered on the Washington 31. Dick Harrison ran 26 yards around left end to put the ball on the 5 and Bellisari plunged over on a handoff from Gene Yore two plays later, making the score 12-0.

THE LIONS started another downfield drive as they took the kickoff. Several good runs by Bainter and McLean accounted for four successive first downs. With less than two minutes to go in the half the Lions had the ball on Hilliards' 15. It was here that the Wildcats' 15 - pound - per-line man advantage paid off as they stopped the Lions from moving any further, and took possession on downs with 25 seconds remaining in the half.

The Washington line had not been able to hold back the powerful Hilliards line long enough to give the backfield a chance to do its stuff.

At the start of the third quarter Washington seemed to come to life, and for a few minutes it looked as if they were going to repeat last week's excellent second-half play. After a 16 - yard kickoff return by Bainter, McLean took the ball on a handoff, found a hole in the Wildcat line, and dodged and twisted his way 67 yards to a touchdown. Less than a minute of play had elapsed and Washington fans were on their feet yelling and waiting for a hometown victory.

HILLIARDS' backs Harrison and Allen Gray quickly hushed the Washington cheers as they sparked an 85 - yard drive for a touchdown with Gray carrying over for the score. Yore kicked the extra point and with the score 19-6 it was obvious that only a miracle could save the willing Blue Lions.

But the miracle never happened as the brawny Wildcats continued to wear down the now Black and Blue Lions. Shortly before the end of the period McLean and Jim Wilson were shaken up on the same play. McLean was knocked cold when a Hilliards blocker landed on his head. Both boys were OK after the game.

The fourth quarter seemed to serve no more purpose than to fulfill football time requirements. Harrison scooted 14 yards around left end for a touchdown on the first play of the final period, and when Yore missed the conversion the score was 25-6.

WASHINGTON wasn't able to go anywhere after the ensuing kickoff

when they attempted air attack failed. Bainter tried to kick on a fourth down and was thrown for a loss on his own 2 - yard line after taking a bad snap from center.

With a first down and 2 yards to go for a score, the Wildcats' only problem was to decide who should be given the honor of picking up 6 more points. They chose a substitute back, Bob Hill, and he did his job well, running over the backs of his linemen and into the end zone.

The Wildcats missed the extra point and the score was 31-6.

A few minutes later the Washington offense came to life again as the evasive Bainter found an opening between tackle and guard and sneaked through for a 72-yard touchdown run while a flock of Wildcats trailed in his dust.

The talented quarterback then passed into the flat to Eldon Brown who ran over with the extra point making the score 31-13.

YORE came right back, after Hilliards had taken Bainter's bad kickoff about midfield, and threw to Harrison for a 49 - yard TD. Yore again booted low on his try for the extra point and the score was 37-13 with 9½ minutes left to play.

On the next play Lion right guard Paul Cox was knocked unconscious by a hard block and had to be carried from the field on a stretcher. He was taken to Memorial Hospital with a neck injury, but X-rays showed no broken bones. Cox regained consciousness about 15 minutes after the play and was resting comfortably in the Hospital Friday night.

There was no more scoring in the remainder of the game as both coaches sent in substitutes. Washington's second string quarterback, Chuck Hire, managed to lead his team to the Hilliards 14 - yard line. But the final gun sounded with the score, 37-13.

ACTUALLY, statistics showed that the Blue Lions had not done as poorly as the score would indicate. The home team had more first downs, 11 to 9, more yards gained rushing, 387 to 258, and recovered more fumbles, 2 to 1, than their rough and tumble opponents. However, the Wildcats completed three forward passes good for 82 yards, while Washington didn't click on any.

Hilliards had the defense when they needed it. Washington seemed to lose its defense just when they needed it most.

"It's the problem we've been working on all season," lamented Washington Coach Fred Domenico after the game. "Somehow we just can't seem to beat it."

IKE NEEDS Republican majorities in Congress...help him by RE-ELECTING GEORGE H. BENDER your U.S. SENATOR

The present U. S. Senate consists of 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans. Control of the next Senate may well depend upon the re-election of George H. Bender. Read what Ohio Newspapers say...

CLEVELAND
CLEVELAND NEWS
Oct. 1, 1956 —
"President Eisenhower can do little to forward his plans for the future of America's peace, prosperity, and progress without Republican majorities in Congress. In his first two years, he was successful in three-fourths of his requests to Congress, when there were virtual Republican majorities. In the last two years, with Democratic majorities in Congress, he was able to accomplish less than half of his program.

"On Eisenhower's 10 vital issues in the past session, Bender not only voted for but worked for them. The President's request for Bender's re-election is the natural move of a leader who wishes to keep a tested friend and supporter... He has become one of the most helpful senators of our generation in terms of work, loyalty, and good sense. We urge his re-election on the record of his past and the promise of his future."

COLUMBUS
OHIO STATE JOURNAL
Oct. 3, 1956 —
"It would be worse than inconsistent for a Republican to vote for four more years of the Republican-Eisenhower administration and then vote to send to the senate a Democrat, even so uncertain a Democrat as Governor Lausche.

...how much worse than inconsistent it would be made plain when Senator Bender's record in both house and senate under the Eisenhower administration is considered. First in the house and for the past two years in the senate George Bender has been a loyal supporter of the President and his program.
"A vote for Bender unquestionably is a vote to support the Eisenhower administration."

Cleveland Area May Get Another Harness Race Track

COLUMBUS—Walter J. Michael, Bucyrus industrialist whose managerial magic transformed Grandview Oval in two brief years from a tottering enterprise into Ohio's best known harness racing track, is preparing to expand his Stand-ardbred operation.

Michael has been identified as president of Penn-Ohio Downs, Inc. which has purchased Sportsman's Park, an automobile racing track located on State Route 8, 15 miles south of Cleveland, and plans to convert it into a modern harness racing plant.

Michael and Homer Marshman, Cleveland attorney and only other stockholder in the new corporation, have applied for 1957 dates from the Ohio Racing Commission and will embark on a large scale improvement program as soon as the application is approved.

The new track, as yet unnamed, straddles the Summit and Cuyahoga County lines between Cleveland and Akron and is eight miles west of Grandview whose attendance and mutual handle figures have increased 25 and 30 per cent respectively since Michael took over in 1955.

Michael and Marshman have applied for 1957 dates beginning Aug. 23 and continuing through Oct. 12. If approved, this will provide a full harness racing circuit for northern Ohio from mid-May to mid-October.

FAYETTE COUNTY SCHOOL FACTS NO. 12

DO YOU WANT THE TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES

How much do you want to pay to keep the Miami Trace District and the County Superintendent?

How much more are we asked to pay than it will cost in a consolidated All-Fayette County District?

50% MORE Can we afford it? Do we want it?

HERE'S WHY

Building Program	District	Cost
$1,652,500	Miami Trace District	2.80 mills
Plus interest ON $40,000,000.00 duplicate for 21 years		average
$1,652,500	All-Fayette Co. District	1.86 mills
Plus interest ON $60,000,000.00 duplicate for 21 years		average
.94		.94 mills
1.86 —	1/2 more or 50% MORE COST	extra

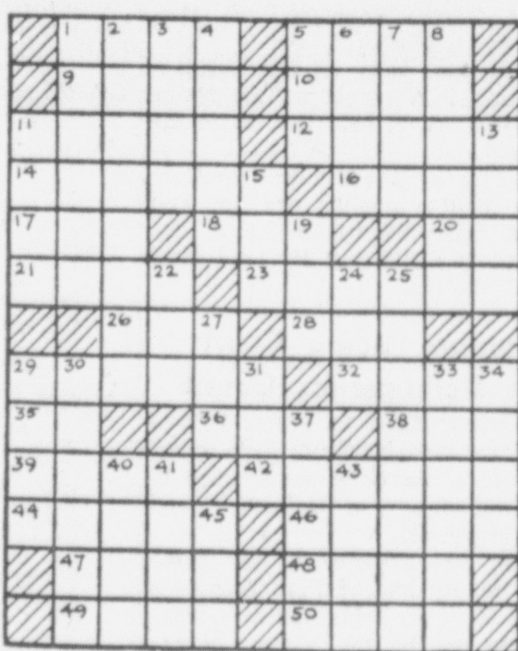

ANY Miami Trace School District building program will cost any rural taxpayer half again as much in additional taxes as it would cost in an All-Fayette County School District.

FAYETTE COUNTY SCHOOL FACTS NO. 12

DO YOU WANT THE TRUTH OR WILL YOU PAY THE CONSEQUENCES

How much do you want to pay to keep the Miami Trace District and the County Superintendent?

How much more are we asked to pay than it will cost in a consolidated All-Fayette County District?

50% MORE

Can we afford it? Do we want it?

HERE'S WHY

Building Program	District	Cost
$1,652,500	Miami Trace District	2.80 mills
Plus interest ON $40,000,000.00 duplicate for 21 years		average
$1,652,500	All-Fayette Co. District	1.86 mills
Plus interest ON $60,000,000.00 duplicate for 21 years		average
.94		.94 mills
1.86	1/2 more or 50% MORE COST	extra

ANY Miami Trace School District building program will cost any rural taxpayer half again as much in additional taxes as it would cost in an All-Fayette County School District.

20 Seniors Honored At Band 'Farewell'

Although the 103-piece Washington C. H. High School Marching Band will play at one more football game, it was a sad group of 20 seniors that filed slowly through the outline of the hour glass in its traditional farewell Friday night during the halftime show of the game between the Lions and the gridders from Hilliards.

There were either in the eyes or close to the surface of the seniors with the realization that their high school days — and days with the band — were drawing to a close.

There were those in the crowd, too, with lumps in their throats as they watched the touching and impressive farewell ceremony.

While the band will remain as a unit for another football game with Circleville's Tigers here next Friday night, for a performance during the halftime of a professional game between the Browns and Baltimore Colts at Cleveland on Nov. 11 and the annual spring concert in April, the hour glass formation was presented a week ahead of the usual final game so the band could give its home town supporters a preview of the show it will put on at Cleveland.

THE HOUR GLASS ceremony climaxed the Friday evening performance. As the band played Auld Lang Syne, the seniors who filed slowly through it from top to bottom were: Wilma Brown, tenor saxophone, five years; Sarah Core, French horn, five years; Susan Dray, clarinet, four years; Webb Ellis, trumpet, five years; Janice Gillen, bells and oboe, four years; Ronnie Knisley, trumpet, six years; Nancy Hurt, flute and piccolo, four years; Ronald Merritt, sousaphone, three years; Dan Miller, trumpet, six years; Frank Miller, clarinet, bassoon and drums, three years; Robert Moats, sousaphone, four years; Jean Persinger, saxophone, five years; Judy Presto, French horn, five years; Naney Reno, trombone, six years; Linda

Rice, trumpet, three years; Sandy Rose, clarinet, four years; Patricia Scott, saxophone, three years; Ann Sheppard, flute, three years; Sara Terhune, bells, four years; Wanda Tracey, majorette, three years; Phil Williams, drums, four years, and Bill Dresbaugh, the manager.

The theme of the evening's program was "School Days," a boost for the city school building bond issue and operating levy.

AFTER COMING on the field in a unique wedge formation, spearheaded by the drum major and majorettes, the band formed a compact square to show the crowded conditions of the elementary schools and then, still playing the theme song, "School Days," literally burst apart as the enrollment increased from 925 in 1940 to an estimated 1,426 four years from now.

But the band had a solution, as it formed a huge voting booth, complete with voters (majorettes) marching in and out, playing to old campaign rally tune, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and then swung into "Happy Days Are Here Again," after the election was over.

The WHS Band took the field after the Hilliards Band had put on musical travelogue with songs and formations representing visits to Spain, France, Holland and Hawaii.

Woman Asks $25,000 In Alienation Action

A $25,000 alienation of affections suit against Mabel Everhart, 518 Gibbs Ave., was filed Saturday morning in Common Pleas Court here by Virginia Everhart, 1331 Forrest St.

Mrs. Everhart said in her petition that she and her husband had lived a normal, happy married life from the time they were married, April 29, 1953, until he abandoned her Oct. 20, 1956.

In her petition, Virginia Everhart claims that by the "wrongful and malicious acts," Mabel Everhart caused her to suffer humiliation, distress of mind and disgrace and deprived her of the support and companionship of her husband to her damage of $25,000.

Mrs. Virginia Everhart's attorney, Reed M. Winegardner, said she and Mrs. Mabel Everhart were not closely related, if at all.

Downtown Collision Causes Traffic Tie-Up

A minor auto accident tied up traffic for several minutes at Court and Fayette Sts., Saturday morning.

According to Patrolman Virgil Harris, the mishap occurred when cars driven by Harry N. Bedell, 66, of 714 Washington Ave., attempting to make a left turn into Fayette St., and James D. Vance, 19, Route 2, who had the right-of-way, collided.

Minor damage was done to both cars. No one was hurt.

Letters To Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I read Mr. Shepard's letter of Oct. 31 to the editor of the Record-Herald which proves another point to me. It seems the city board has some dictators. I should think the meager sum of one hundred dollars fee for entry into the city high school would be a small consideration to such a wealthy group of people as the RPA would have us believe they represent.

In their sample ballot they speak of stopping the irresponsible handling of money. We read and hear nearly every day of institutions being filled by such practices and certainly I would rather have the money I pay in taxes used to educate our children in preference to boarding these culprits.

I dare say we have a very competent and efficient County and Miami Trace Board of Education, as well as a very apt and intelligent county superintendent, who have given unselfishly of their time and effort in trying to work out the best plan for all concerned.

I believe the results of the tallying of votes will prove to the members of the so-called Rural Parents Assn., that we are quite able and willing to transact our own affairs and that no one of them will have a deficit to pay for any of us.

Come out and vote for the Miami Trace bond issue and have this situation settled for once and for all. Other counties have progressed — why not Fayette County? They want to be out in front in everything else and I can not think of anything more important than an adequate education in a modern building for our leaders of tomorrow. Let us not be a bull in a patented pig pen.

Who Will be on It?

6 Rural People, 3 Town People.

Yes WHEN it is set up it takes JURISDICTION over every school district in the county. And NO board can transfer or annex another. ONLY THE PEOPLE can do this.

As of Today ONLY THE COUNTY BOARD can transfer school territory. When you are told you will be annexed to some other district are you being threatened with a SECRETLY planned action of the County Board.

Rural People have been told they will have less representation is this True?

No - The Rural School District, will have 2 to 1 representation on the Citizen Committee.

Do we Rural People HONESTLY believe that OUR BOARDS OF EDUCATION will sell us down the River? No - We don't believe that.

It's quite clear the County Superintendent does not want a Citizens Committee, guaranteed to Fayette County BY LAW. Because he fears he can't control it, or its reports to the people.

20 Seniors Honored At Band 'Farewell'

Although the 103-piece Washington C. H. High School Marching Band will play at one more football game, it was a sad group of 20 seniors that filed slowly through the outline of the hour glass in its traditional farewell Friday night during the halftime show of the game between the Lions and the gridders from Hilliards.

Tears were either in the eyes or close to the surface of the seniors with the realization that their high school days — and days with the band — were drawing to a close.

There were those in the crowd, too, with lumps in their throats as they watched the touching and impressive farewell ceremony.

While the band will remain as a unit for another football game with Circleville's Tigers here next Friday night, for a performance during the halftime of a professional game between the Browns and Baltimore Colts at Cleveland on Nov. 11 and the annual spring concert in April, the hour glass formation was presented a week ahead of the usual final game so the band could give its home town supporters a preview of the show it will put on at Cleveland.

THE HOUR GLASS ceremony climaxed the Friday evening performance. As the band played Auld Lang Syne, the seniors who filed slowly through it from top to bottom were: Wilma Brown, tenor saxophone, five years; Sarah Core, French horn, five years; Susan Dray, clarinet, four years; Janice Gillen, bells and oboe, four years; Ronnie Knisley, trumpet, six years; Nancy Hurt, flute and piccolo, four years; Ronald Merritt, sousaphone, three years; Dan Miller, trumpet, six years; Frank Miller, clarinet, bassoon and drums, three years; Robert Moats, sousaphone, four years; Jean Persinger, saxophone, five years; Judy Prest on, French horn, five years; Nancy Reno, trombone, six years; Linda

Rice, trumpet, three years; Sandy Rose, clarinet, four years; Patricia Scott, saxophone, three years; Ann Sheppard, flute, three years; Sara Terhune, bells, four years; Wanda Tracey, majorette, three years; Phil Williams, drums, four years, and Bill Dresbaugh, the manager.

The theme of the evening's program was "School Days," a boost for the city school building bond issue and operating levy.

AFTER COMING on the field in a unique wedge formation, spearheaded by the drum major and majorettes, the band formed a compact square to show the crowded conditions of the elementary schools and then, still playing the theme song, "School Days," literally burst apart as the enrollment increased from 925 in 1940 to an estimated 1,426 four years from now.

But the band had a solution, as it formed a huge voting booth, complete with voters (majorettes) marching in and out, playing to old campaign rally tune, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and then swung into "Happy Days Are Here Again," after the election was over.

The WHS Band took the field after the Hilliards Band had put on musical traveltogue with songs and formations representing visits to Spain, France, Holland and Hawaii.

Woman Asks $25,000 In Alienation Action

A $25,000 alienation of affections suit against Mabel Everhart, 518 Gibbs Ave., was filed Saturday morning in Common Pleas Court here by Virginia Everhart, 1331 Forrest St.

Mrs. Everhart said in her petition that she and her husband had lived a normal, happy married life from the time they were married, April 29, 1953, until he abandoned her Oct. 20, 1956.

In her petition, Virginia Everhart claims that by the "wrongful and malicious acts," Mabel Everhart caused her to suffer humiliation, distress of mind and disgrace and deprived her of the support and companionship of her husband to her damage of $25,000.

Mrs. Virginia Everhart's attorney, Reed M. Winegardner, said she and Mrs. Mabel Everhart were not closely related, if at all.

Cafe Operator Held in Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police have charged Raymond C. Levy, 32, a Cincinnati restaurant operator, with manslaughter in the beating death of a patron, Horace Davis, 31, Thursday.

Downtown Collision Causes Traffic Tie-Up

A minor auto accident tied up traffic for several minutes at Court and Fayette Sts., Saturday morning.

According to Patrolman Virgil Harris, the mishap occurred when cars driven by Harry N. Bedell, 66, of 714 Washington Ave., attempting to make a left turn into Fayette St., and James D. Vance, 19, Route 2, who had the right-of-way, collided.

Minor damage was done to both cars. No one was hurt.

Letters To Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:
I read Mr. Shepard's letter of Oct. 31 to the editor of the Record-Herald which proves another point to me. It seems the city board has some dictators. I should think the meager sum of one hundred dollars fee for entry into the city high school would be a small consideration to such a wealthy group of people as the RPA would have us believe they represent.

In their sample ballot they speak of stopping the irresponsible handling of money. We read and hear nearly every day of institutions being filled by such practices and certainly I would rather have the money I pay in taxes used to educate our children in preference to boarding these culprits.

I dare say we have a very competent and efficient County and Miami Trace Board of Education, as well as a very apt and intelligent county superintendent, who have given unselfishly of their time and effort in trying to work out the best plan for all concerned.

I believe the results of the tallying of votes will prove to the members of the so-called Rural Parents Assn., that we are quite able and willing to transact our own affairs and that no one of them will have a deficit to pay for any of us.

Come out and vote for the Miami Trace bond issue and have this situation settled for once and for all. Other counties have progressed — why not Fayette County. They want to be out in front in everything else and I can not think of anything more important than an adequate education in a modern building for our leaders of tomorrow. Let not be a bull in a patented pig pen.
